Richard Sears

Alvah Roebuck

1886

The Statue of Liberty was just dedicated and the first automobile was patented. This was a time of change and invention that would dramatically alter the American way of life over the coming decades. And that was the year Richard Sears, a young railroad agent in North Redwood, Minnesota made his first sale of a simple pocket watch. Thus was born a company that would eventually change the shopping habits of a nation

Sears Anniversary Pocket Watch

For the gentleman of distinction, this classic limited edition watch has historical detailing similar to the watches sold by Richard W. Sears 100 years ago. The beautifully detailed antique finished case is edged by elegant scrollwork. On the front cover is a 2-toned locomotive; on the back, the Redwood, Minnesota train station where Mr. Sears sold his first watch. Our anniversary watch is updated with your choice of accurate quartz or 17-jewel Swiss movement. It boasts an ivory face and the signature of Mr. Sears inside the front cover. Watch and chain made of gold-color imported base metal. Warranted by Arnex®.

Sears formed a partnership with Alvah Roebuck and in just a few short years they were producing a giant catalog that included just about any product needed by rural America... from bonnets to carriages.

Sears earned the customers' trust by guaranteeing satisfaction or their money back and their gratitude by being the first to offer installment credit so farmers could pay for goods after the harvests

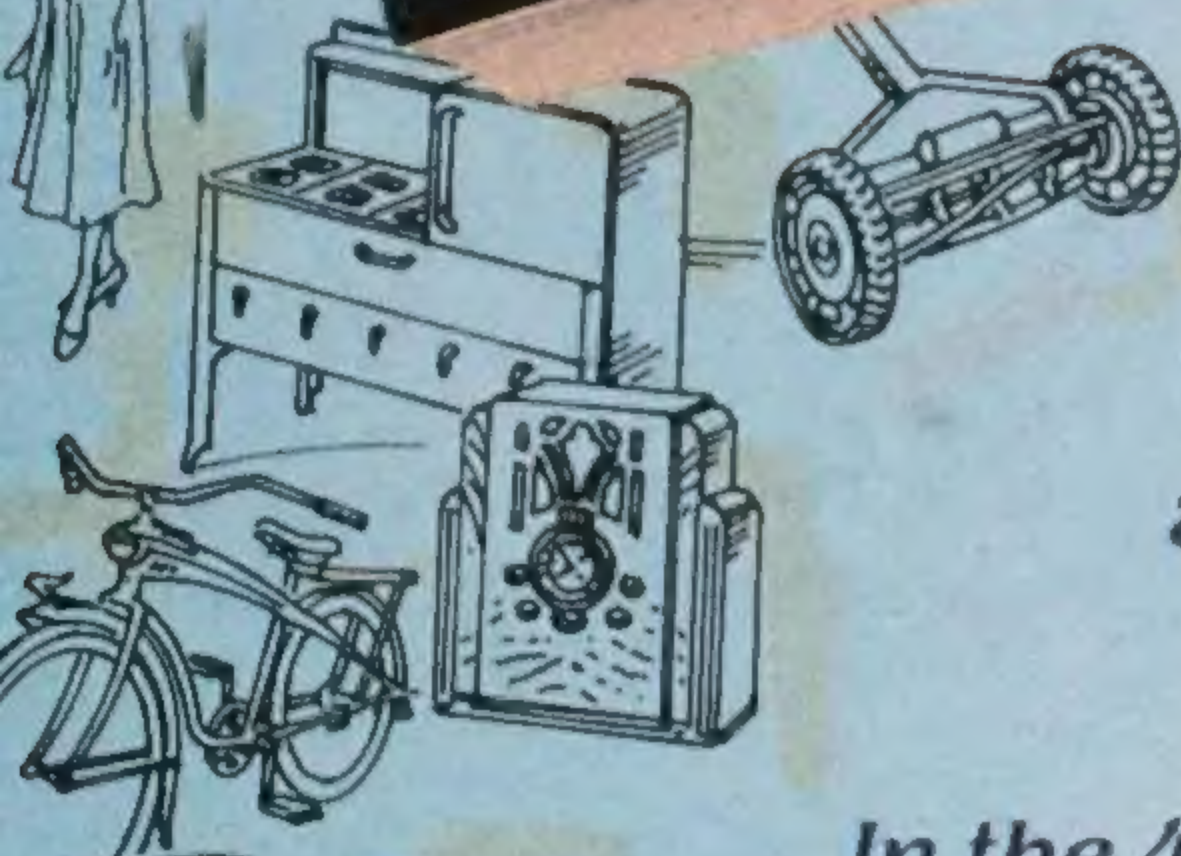

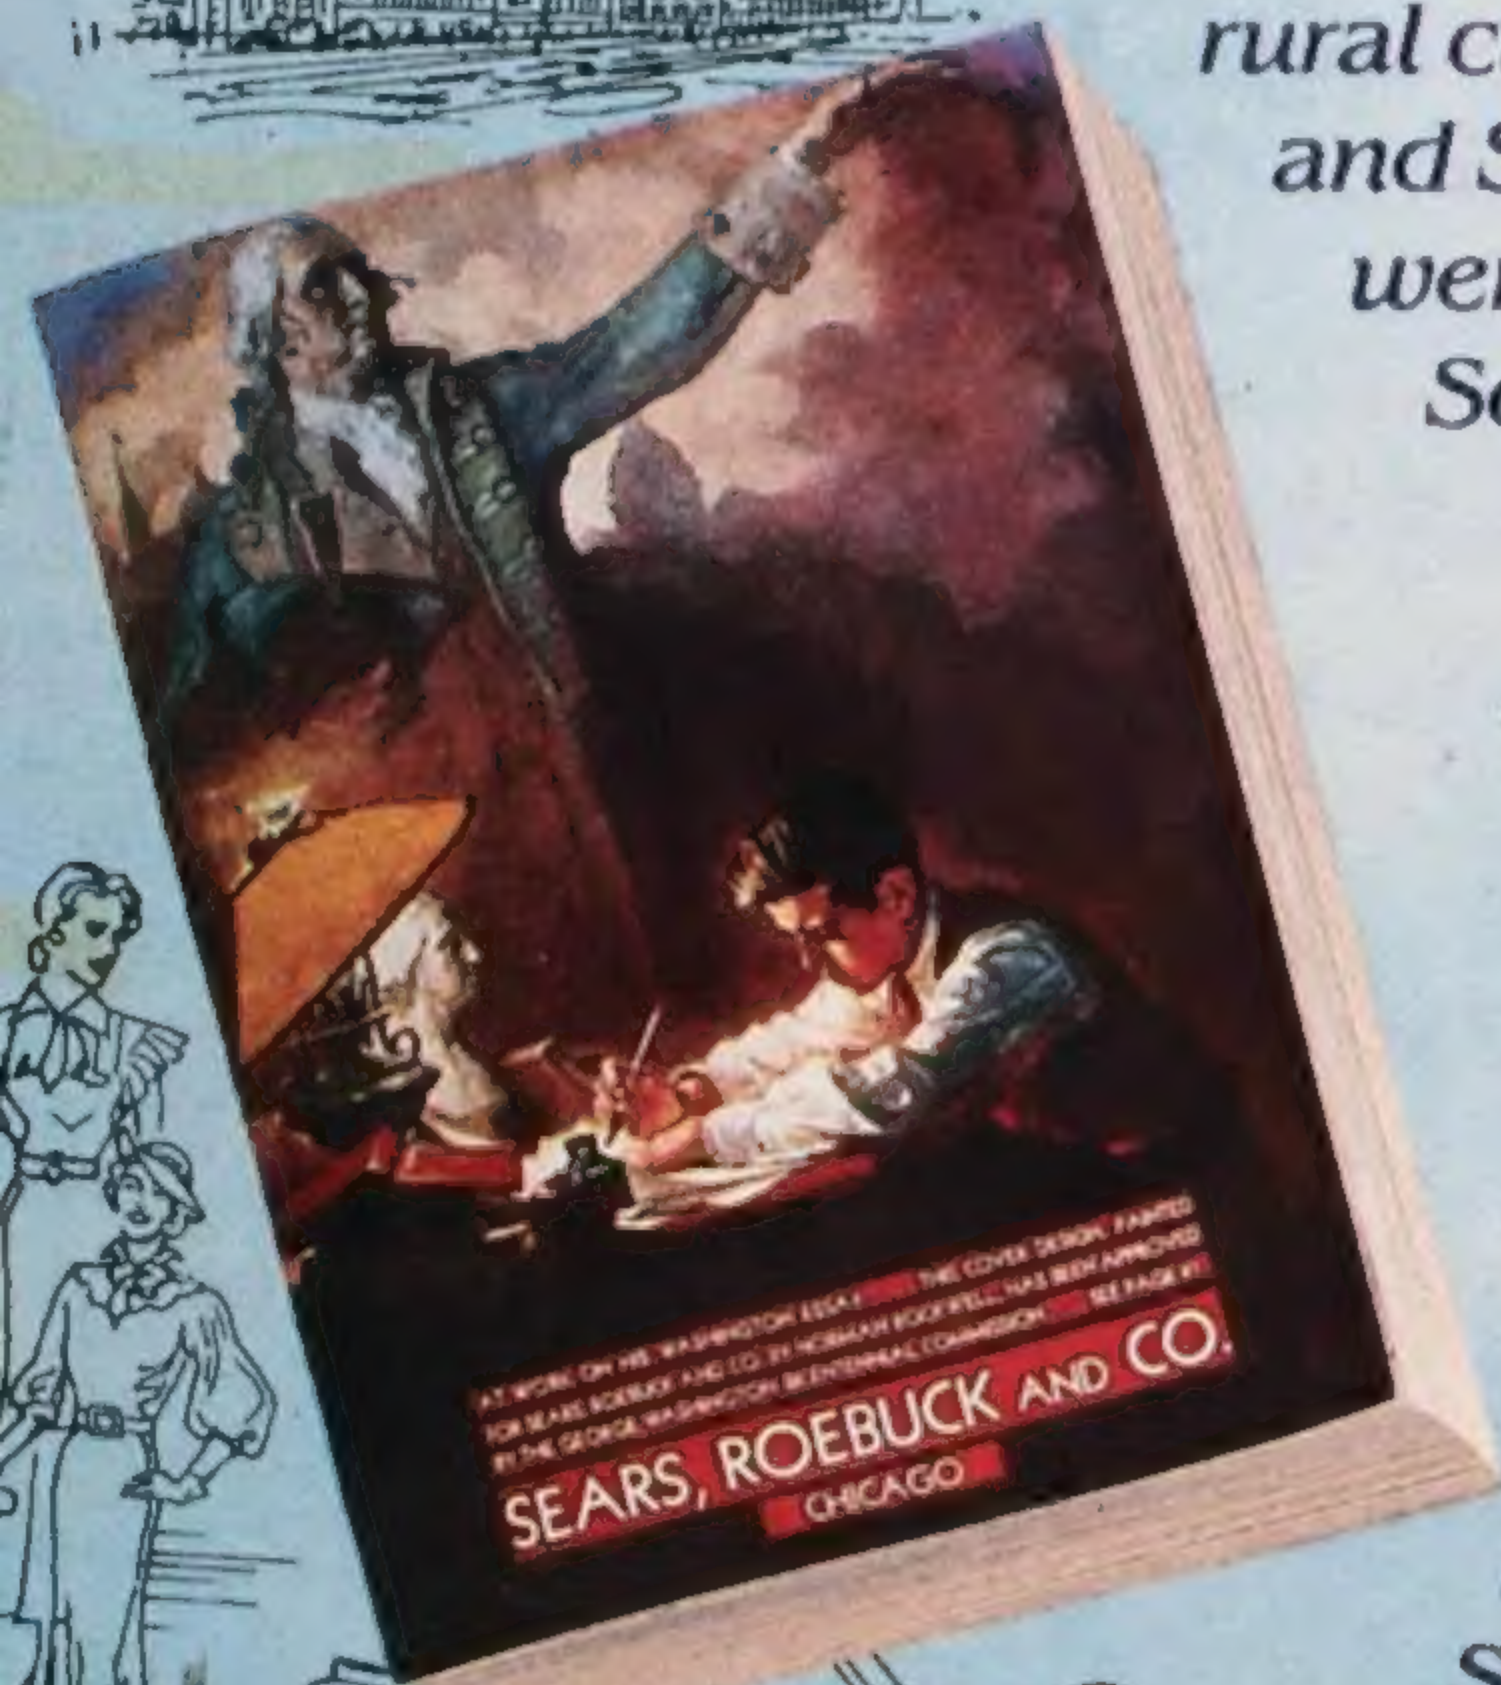

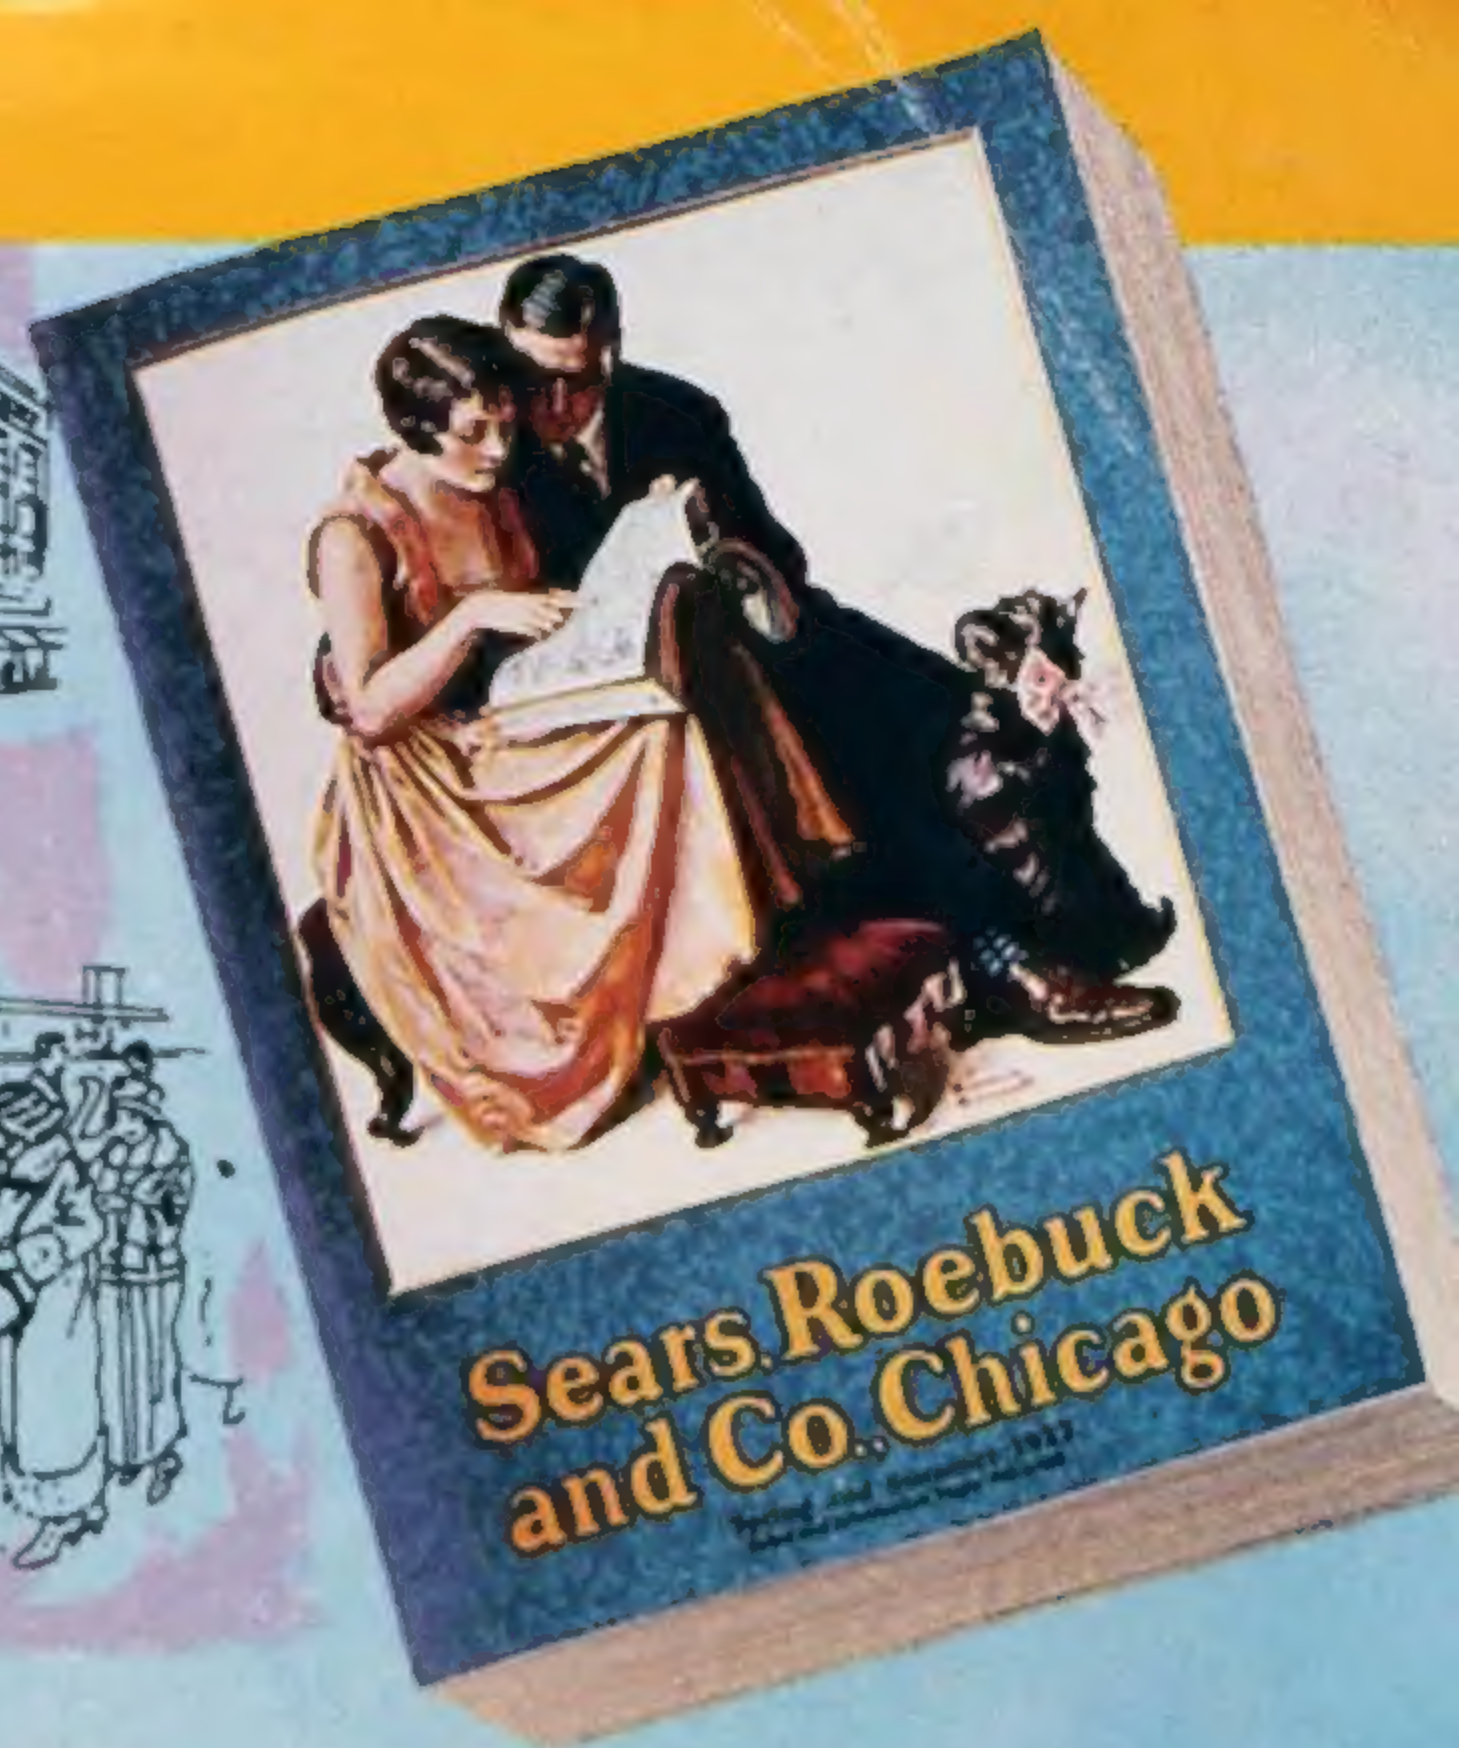

By the 20's, Sears, Roebuck and Co. had become a household word. From the famous "Wish Book", families ordered the houses they lived in, the clothes they wore, the tools they worked with. A young artist named Norman Rockwell created the cover art for some Sears catalogs. And a Sears radio station, WLS, broadcast weather forecasts, market information and the National Barn Dance to millions of rural customers. But the country was changing and Sears began to change with it. People were moving from the towns to the cities. So, in 1925 Sears opened its first retail store

Then came the depression, unexpected yet particularly devastating to Sears customers. To help them get through those difficult times, Sears drastically reduced prices on clothes, tools, bedding—all the necessities of life. Yet innovation and change were not forgotten. Stores continued to be built in cities across the land.

Families listened to Fred Allen and Amos 'n Andy on Sears new Silvertone Radios and insured their Fords, Chevys and Plymouths with Allstate Insurance purchased through Sears catalogs and retail stores

In the 40's America went to war and Sears joined the effort. The experience and systems Sears used to distribute millions of products to American families were adapted to help supply our armed forces around the world. And Sears pioneered in the use of substitute materials for goods essential to the war effort and in selling rebuilt products from tires to golf balls. When the war came to an end, Sears was ready to help the returning service men get started on new lives with an array of new products for the home—Kenmore automatic washers and electric ranges. Craftsman power lawn mowers and something new called television

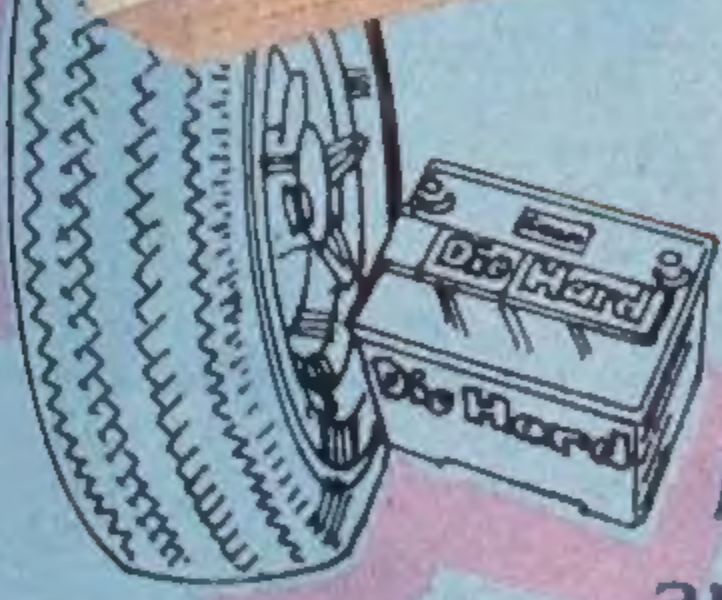

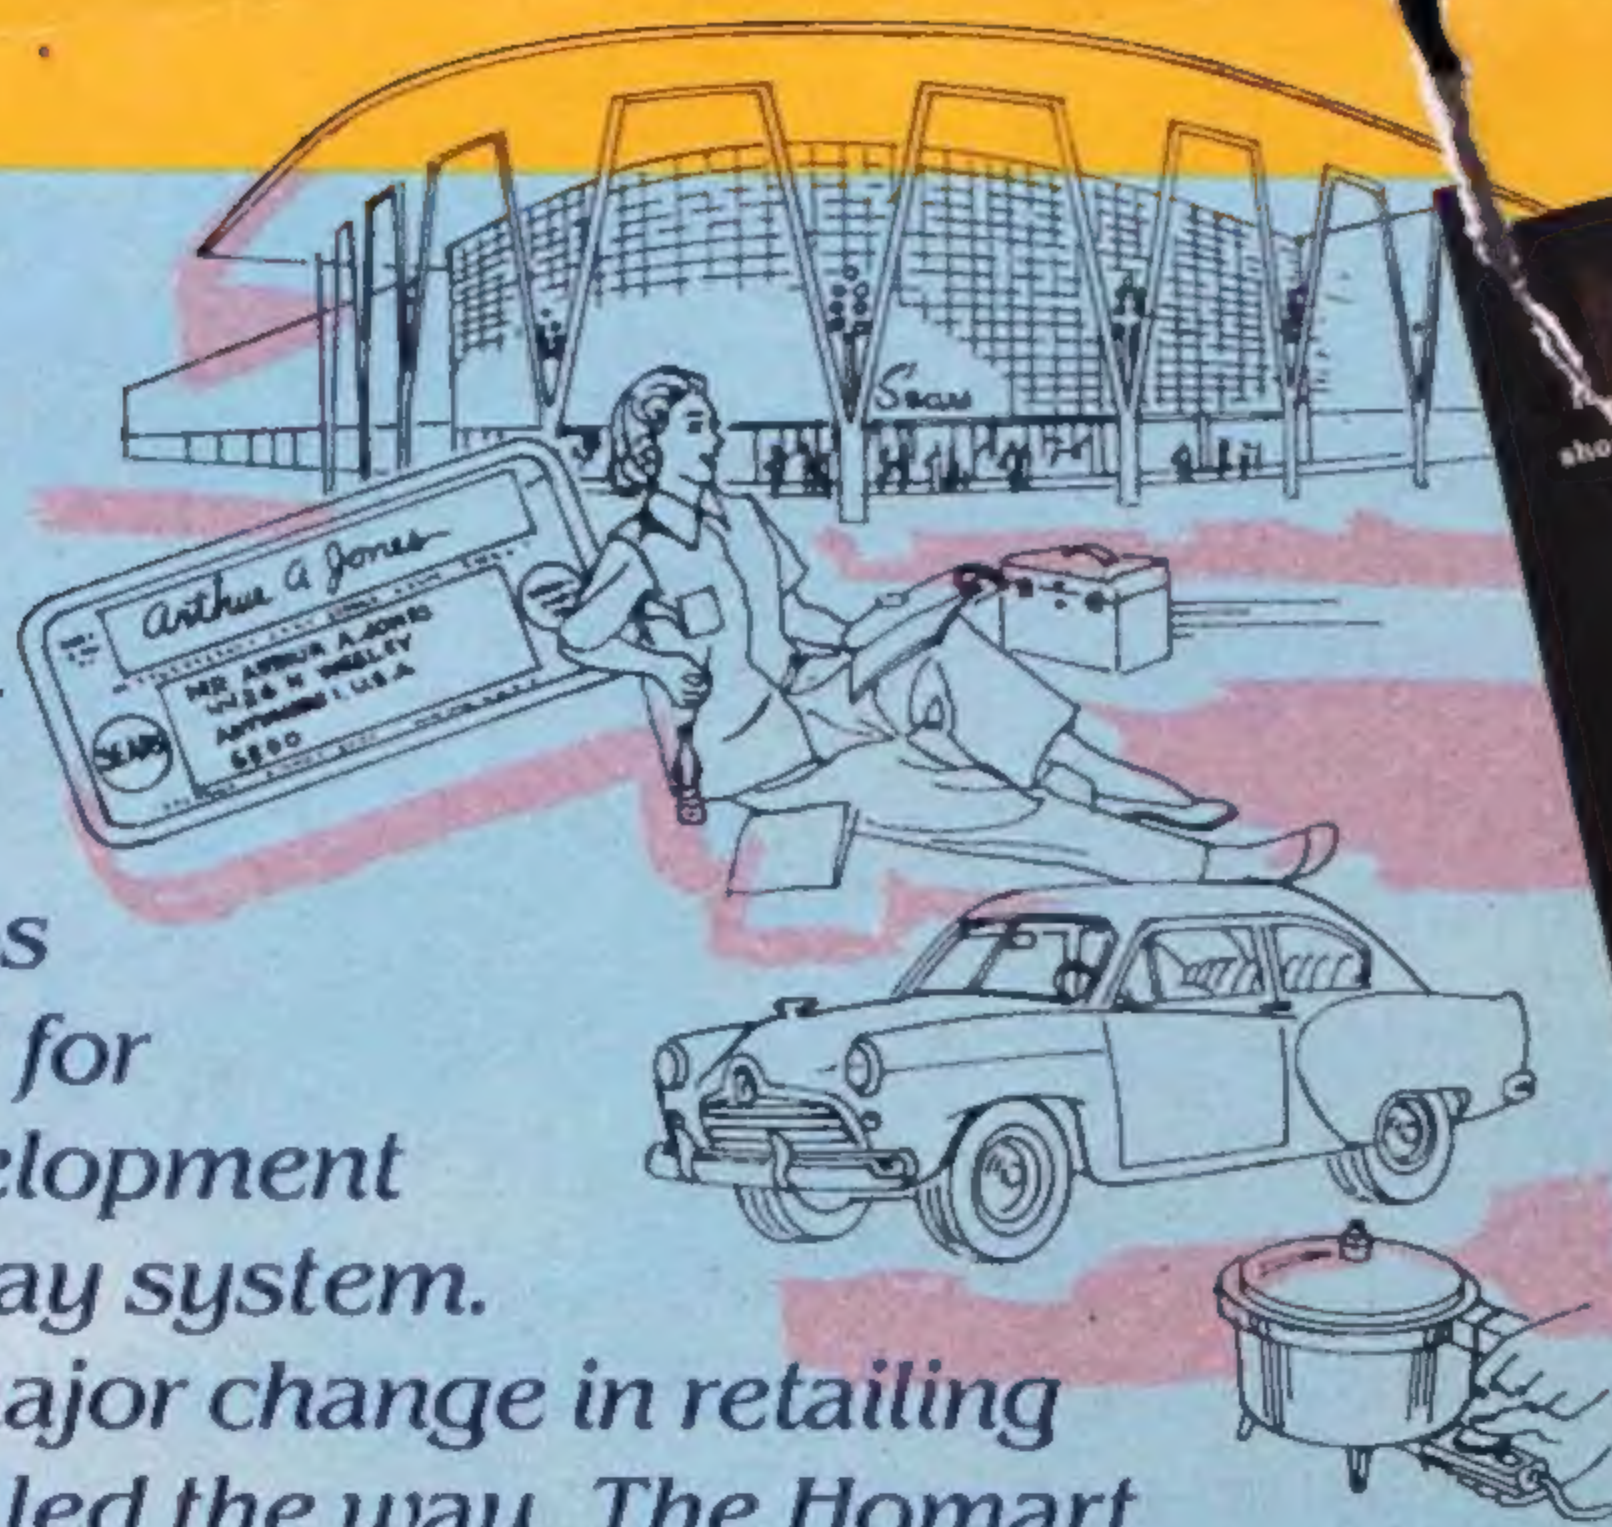

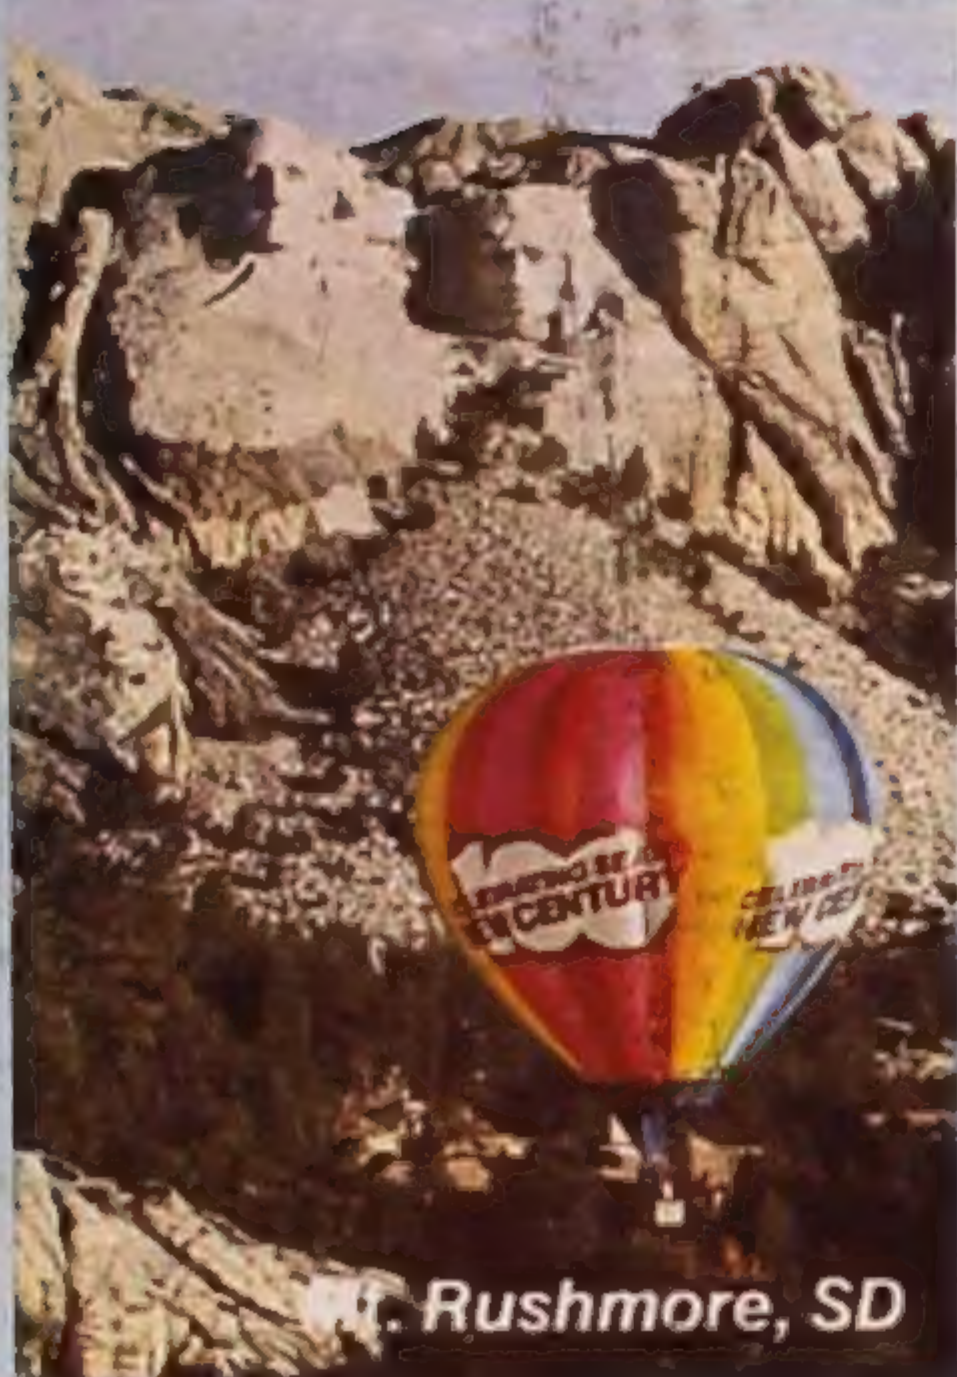

The decade of the 50's saw the beginning of another major population shift, from the cities to the suburbs spurred on by a great need for new housing and the development of the interstate highway system.

With this came a major change in retailing and again Sears led the way. The Homart Development Co. was formed to help Sears perfect and expand the concept of the suburban shopping mall. And the Sears Catalog took on new life... bringing customers the ease and convenience of telephone shopping. This was the time when Sears introduced its own credit card, an instant success, and sold one of the first compact cars, the Allstate, which unfortunately was 20 years ahead of its time

Sears celebrated its 75th Anniversary in 1961 as the premier merchant in the world. In the city and on the farm, in suburbs and towns from coast to coast, families counted on Sears for quality, value and service backed by our famous guarantee of satisfaction. A young, unknown model named Cheryl Tiegs appeared for the first time on a Sears Catalog Cover. And product innovation continued to reflect the changing needs and desires of customers... Frost-free Refrigerators, Diehard Batteries, Radial Tires, Color Television and Perma-Prest fashions

In the 70's, famous names like Kenmore and Craftsman were joined by such new stars as Toughskins, Diane Von Furstenberg and Cheryl Tiegs. A whole new kind of catalog was created that served the special needs of Sears customers. These specialogs for the Big Man, the Do-it-yourselfer, the Fisherman and Mobile Home Owner again put new life into at home shopping from Sears. And in 1974, Sears new national headquarters was completed that quickly became one of Chicago's most famous landmarks, the tallest building in the world. But all of this was just the beginning to our new century

Sears salutes the cities and towns all across the U.S.A... with a special tribute to those communities also celebrating an anniversary this year where we went to photograph many of the pages you'll see in this catalog. We want to thank the people of those communities for their gracious hospitality and assistance, and to thank all America for a great century

The Balloonist's Prayer
The Winds have welcomed you with softness.
The Sun has blessed you with his warm hands.
You have flown so high and so well,
that God has joined you in your laughter.
And He has set you gently back again into the loving arms of Mother Earth

The means of repairing Liberty has become quite a feat in itself... with aluminum scaffolding weighing more than 300 tons and ascending more than 300 feet into the air. In all, about 80,000 pounds of copper will be used in the restoration. Representing hope and pride, Liberty has also become a tribute to hard work and ingenuity.
